Call for Reconciliation artwork

Indigenous community members are invited to submit artwork to be included in Horsham Rural City Council's Reconciliation Action Plan document.

Horsham Rural City Council's Aboriginal Advisory Committee is about to finalise its Reconciliation Action Plan with endorsement by Reconciliation Australia expected soon.

Director Community Wellbeing Kevin O'Brien said the artwork would be both for display and digital reproduction.

"We are seeking pieces of artwork to reflect our vision which is to create an improved understanding of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander histories, cultures and future aspirations through fostering meaningful relationships within our communities," Mr O'Brien said.

"A shortlist of entries will be given to the Indigenous community in February and the winner will then be decided by a vote."

Artworks must be submitted by 18 January and can be sent to Mr O'Brien in person at the Civic Centre, 18 Roberts Avenue Horsham, via mail, PO Box 511 Horsham 3402 or email to kevin.obrien@hrcc.vic.gov.au.

Getting ready for e-waste landfill ban

Grampians Central West Waste and Resource Recovery Group has teamed up with Horsham Rural City Council to get an early start on preparing the local community for the ban on e-waste going to landfill from July 2019.

Two new e-waste stations have been installed at the Horsham Civic Centre and the Horsham Library for residents to dispose of a variety of small e-waste items such as batteries, CFL globes and fluoro tube, mobile phones and small items such as keyboards, computer mouse, laptops and other small electrical items.

Horsham has also received funding for infrastructure to deal with the e-waste ban at the Kenny Road Transfer Station. All sorts of e-waste will be able to be disposed of at the Transfer Station, whereas the e-waste station at the Council office focusses on smaller scale items.

The Resource and Recovery group's Executive Officer La Vergne Lehmann said the e-waste education program starting early next year would include events, public displays, school education, e-waste guides and more.

"While we have had disposal options available for old televisions and computers for some years, the new ban will include a much larger range of items," Ms Lehmann said.

"This means that household items such as electric kettles, hair dryers and vacuum cleaners, just to name a few, will now be included."
